The Kamaishi Mines have been a sad buncle, and we can well understand that the authorities feel disposed to abandon an enterprise which has cost so much and returned so little. | vesther But it is difficult to think that the scheme offers no prospect of prefitable development. There is wisdom in a resolve not to throw good money after bad, and if it has been definitively ascertained that nothing can be made of the mines. then indeed to leave them alone altogether is the most sensible course. But foreign experts have given it as their opinion that the trouble had its source rather in the method of carrying out the project than in its original conception, and the public will scarcely be persuaded to believe that no method exists of recovering at least a fraction of the heavy sums which have been expended in the projecture of Iwate.

Figures are cometimes startling, especially when they refer to matters which in themselves bave no rational connection with arithmetic Who would think of calculating, for example, howmuch the young ladies of Japan spend inmaking cherries of their lips? The driest statistigian in the universe could scarcely be accused of conceiving such a problem at the first blush. Nevertheless it is a problem of some importance. for if the Jiju Shimbun may be credited, the yearly manufacture of rouge (beni) at Saikiyo and Osaka reaches a value of no less than 8 12 oz. million yen. Is it possible to imagine money more utterly and hopelessly wasted? Nothing spoils the prettiness of the fair ser in Japan except their lavish use of beni and oshiroi, and they are not likely to mend their ways seein : that a brisk demand for this same rouge has sprung up in foreign countries. It has not yet appeared that Mrs. Spoopendyke uses cosmetica. When she begins to do so, Mr. S. will have a good many sweet things to say."

We read that the Central Post Bureau is engaved in establishing seventy-one branch-offices throughout the Empire: that twenty-seven have been already completed, and that the remainder will be finished before next September, when the accounts for the 16th fiscal year of Meiji close. The Post Office has accomplished a great deal in Japan and its organization does much credit to the country. The delivery of letters at present in all the chief towns leaves nothing to be desired. Indeed, it would seem that the whole service is inspired with a desire to do well, and that from the Postmaster-General down to the letter-carrier, who draws his little cart up bill and down hill at break-neck speed, there is a general consciousness of being under the eye of the public, and a prevailing anxiety to accomplish something worthy of Young Japan. None the less it would be idle to pretend that there is not room for improvement. For though the people who live on the main postal routes have nothing to complain of, the case is different with those in more remote districts. Thus while a letter posted in Fujisawa at noon is delivered in Tokiyo the same evening a letter posted at Yenoshima, which is only an hours walk from Fujisawa, takes sixty hours to reach the capital. This is a little out of due proportion. Possibly it will be one of the matters mended by the seventy coo branch offices mentioned above. At all events it deserves looking after. - Japan Mail.

SCOTTISH SONGS. I'trend on Scotia's ground, and all Hor legends quaint come back to me-

The songs we heard at evenfall When nestled round our mother's knee; The norms read before the mind Could realise their priceless worth,

When thoughtleseness and joy, combined To make an Eden fair of earth. No other songe can be as sweet As those old lays must be to me, Since they recall glad hours, too fleet, Entrancing, apont at mother's knee. The ballads read in early years, Of maidens fair and warriors brava, Have still the power to call up tears,

Though all be ended by the grave. The joy, the grief, the hope, the fdar. Seem frosh and new as yesterday

Upon a cunny summer's day. Blest be the artitlat has the power To link the present with the past, Recalling many a vanished hour-That was too fair and fleet to last

To me who roam in idleness here

KATE TAYLOR ROBINSON.

THE EMPEROR WILLIAM'S DREAM AND ITS ACCOMPLISHMENT. Berlin correspondent writes:—The following interesting episode is told in connection with the Emperor's recent visit to guranous at Current Rates. the Hygienic Exhibition. While inspecting Majesty noticed a small china cup bearing | and the Philippines. ____. the date 1863, and decorated with a blue silk ribbon. On inquiry he was informed that this was the cup from which he had taken memory of his visit. Taking the cup in his hand, the Emperor said with a smile. "Yes. I remember that time very well. It's 20 years ago, and yet it nearly seems as if only | CAPITAL (FULLY SUBSCRIBED), $1,000,000 months had passed since then, my recollections are so vivid. They remind me of a small episode which, perhaps, I may tell you. One night I dreamt I stood at the Kur spring and a man handed me a cup containing poison. When I awoke I laughed at this dream, for every morning at the spring I received my cup from the hands of a charming girl, and that she had no desire to take my life I felt positive. That morning I went to the spring at the usual hour; but when I found a man present this time, waiting to hand me the cup, instead of the girl, who was prevented from coming by illness, or some other reason, then the memory of my droam made me feel quite uneasy and shivery for a moment. I remained uncertain for some instants, but then I suppressed my suspicions, saying to myself, The good Karlsbaders cannot have any thoughts of murder!' And then I looked once more to the extent of £15,000, at the Reduced Tariff at the kind-looking man and at all the Rates. pleasant surroundings, and I emptied the cup at a draught! Of course it did not harm me. On the contrary, my stay at Karlsbad was very beneficial to me.

AN OLD SHOWMAN'S STORY. An old "showman" tells the following exciting story of his experience when connected with a well-known menagerie during an engagement at Smithland, Kentucky, "After the exhibition was over;" he says, "I passed into the menageric to talk to the watchman. From some cause he was absent from his post, and I walked across the amphitheatre toward my old friend the elephant to give him an apple, for we were the best of friends. He was one of the largest elephants I over saw, and was as good-natured as he was large. I was about half across the ring when I heard a growl, and looking around, saw to my horror one of the lions out of his cage and approaching me in a crouching manner, ready for a spring. I thought of a thousand things in a moment and among them I must have regretted perpetrating so many old worn-out jokes at the performance that night. I had sufficient presence of mind to realise my dangerous situation and to know that it required the utmost caution to extricate myself from it. One hasty-motion-on my yart and I would be in the jaws of the monster. I felt that my only hope was the elephant, if I could reach him, but he was chained by the foot and could not reach mo. Nearer and nearer came the lion, waving his tail in a manner that meant business. If I turned my back, he would spring; if I took my eyes from him I was lost. It was a terrible moment. I glided backwards swiftly as I dared. I had another fear. I feared stambling backwards, and knew if I did fall, I would never rise, but that where I fell I would make a meal for that lion. As I neared the elephant I saw that the lion understood my movements and fearing he would be baulked of his prey, he prepared to bring the matter to a crisis. I then saw that I had but one hope, to rush with all my speed to the elephant. I think I must have jumped twenty feet when I turned, and I know the lion jumped thirty, but he just missed me. How I completed the race I do not know. I only knew that: the elephant's trunk was around my waist and he was lifting me up on his head. I China, and Australia. only knew I was saved.

THE DOCTOR OF THE REGIMENT. There was no "playing the old soldier" with Dr. Munro, no chance of successful shirking or malingering; but there was also the comfortable assurance, thoroughly felt by all, that when really ill, stricken with cholera, mutilated and smashed by bullet, round shot, or cold steel, their cases were safe in his hands. Many touching instances of this are to be found in the book. An officer desperately wounded lying at a distance from headquarters implores his old friend to attend him; and the good doctor cheerfully adds a twenty mile ride to his already heavy daily labours. A private soldier, again, who CHING TO CHAT, Esq. YIP YU TIN, Esq. must inevitably lose his arm, will suffer no one but his own "guid friend" to perform the amputation, and prefers to wait in torture, and with infinite danger to himself, till Dr. Munro arrived. "Ye were lang o' comin'. man," whispered the honest Highlander, blant of speech in his desporate strait, " but or not. ye're come noo, and I ken that I'll be taken care o'." After the operation was over, and the sufferer was encouraged to hope that he would do well, his gratitude was pathetic; and he pressed upon his guid friend a horn anuff-box which he had made himself in the Orimea, "a wee thing to mind him," the doctor, of all his kindness. It is pleasant to read of indomitable pluck; of the delicate FIRE at the following Rates:stripling, who, too lame to march with his On First-class European regiment, was carried into action in a dhoolie to fall into his place with swollen slippered feet, and do his share of the fighting; of brave old Maobean who began as a private soldier and died a major-general, winning bis Victoria Cross'single Handed against a dozen foes. When the General who gave him the decoration complimented him on his "noble day's work," the modest, soldier disclaimed all credit, and said, simply. "Tutts, it didna tak me twanty minutes." There was cool courage, too, and of, a, high order, in the pipe-union who pressed into the breach with the foremost, and the foot-hold once made, proceeded to pace calmly up and down the enemy's entrenchments as he played. "the regimental gathering" while the battle. raged fiercely round, thinking, as he afterwards said, that "the lade wloud fight all the better when they heard the music of the pipes."-Pall Mall Cazette:

HONGKONG, THURSDAY, JULY 19TH, 1883.

AND SINGAPORE.

bour Master's annual report, and these, valuable as far as they go, convey only a very vague idea of the volume of the import sary to guard against a confusion of propand export trade of any particular year. In Singapore, which is also a free port, trade of between three and six months sentence, statistics are collected, and although they the highest gain was 36lbs. and the lowest can be said to be only approximately correct, | 5lbs. One remained stationary. Of those beas owing to the fact of Singapore being a free | tween one and three months, the highest port there is no means compelling merchants | gain was 21lbs. and the lowest 1lb. One prito supply the returns, they are nevertheless extremely valuable as affording data for the the lowest 11b. Seven of this class neither comparison of one year's trade-with that of | gained nor lost. Five lost, but Dr. Rowert another. In his report for 1882, the Master is of opinion these latter would probably as their mother tongue. French, German, and in safety from the predicted storm. The baro-Attendant of Singapore has to chronicle a considerable increase both in the imports have been smoking opium over 11 chees = 93 and exports over those of the preceding grains daily. The highest gain in this class write in English." It will be recollected and continued in one continuous rushing roar, year, and it is satisfactory to notice that was 28lbs. the lowest 1lb. Two neither lost that this is the testimony borne by an eminent broken at intervals by sharp gusts. Numerous the trade both with the East and West nor gained. One lost 2lbs. One chee is the testimony borne by an eminent broken at intervals by sharp gusts. Numerous frenchman to the victorious progress of the Chinese craft were then in exposed positions, lycoasts of the Malay Peninsula has been 25 cents. Table III. gives the weight of hear me that every native of this Colony, from these sampans, junks, cargo boats, &c., could be greatly extended. The total imports of 25 prisoners who have been smoking whatever race he may have sprung, is by his heard all over the town. This state of things Singapore in 1882 amounted in value to opium ten years and upwards. This $74,343,978, an increase of $3,644,296 on the preceding year, while the exports amounted to $61,192,459, or $3,191,270 more than in the same class of men. The same remark, 1881. This increase has been almost contiquous since 1870, when the imports were valued at $39,058,564 and the exports at $31,731,022. There have been occasional fluctuations, but taking the dozen years together we find that the trade of the presumption that most of them are perthe place, as measured by its value, has almost doubled itself within that period, Measured by its bulk it must have much more than doubled, as prices are now very. much lower than they were then. The same remark must be borne in mind in The fact that some of the opium-smokers comparing the past and present foreign lost instead of gaining weight while others trade with China. In reviewing the Customs Returns, the Shanghai correspondent of The Times savs :- "The steady and continuous increase in the volume of foreign of the majority. As Dr. Rowell says, trade-since-the-Treaty-of-Tientsin is matter of great satisfaction. It has not risen by leaps and bounds, but slowly and steadily, and, as one may reasonably infer, all the more surely. In 1865 the total of imports and exports was 110 million haikwan taels; the gain, therefore, during the 18 years that have since elapsed has only been some 50 per cent.,-not an extraordinary increase certainly, considering the number of new points that we had just then tapped, and the enormous area over which our goods two distinct classes of evidence which point might spread. Still, a progress there has been, uninterrupted from first to last save by temporary ebbs and flows, and it is in renlity greater than it looks, because the prices of nearly all articles, especially Manchester goods and tea, have declined materially during the period in question. Measured by quantity instead of by value, the detect any substance taken into the system trade has probably developed nearly 100 per cent." If returns of the trade of Hongkong were available we fancy they would show an even more marked increase, cord barrowing cases of the lamentable for not only has the trade with China and Great-Britain increased; but a valuable Aus- who seek their aid for the purpose of breaktralian trade has been developed, as well as ing off the habit, but isolated cases of nartrade with other parts of the world. Taking cotic poisoning are not sufficient to stamp few words of Italian, welcoming His Excellency. the Praya Wall, knocked a big hole in her side, and discharge their cargoes. These premises from Hongkong in 1881 amounted in value to £1,015,716, as against £773,068 in 1865, while the exports to Hongkong were £3,800.189, as against £1,587,647 in 1865. Turning to the returns supplied by the Harbour Master in his last report we find the total tonnage (native and foreign) entered at Hongkong in 1882 was in round numbers 5,000,000 as against 2,500,000 in 1867. The foreign tonnage had risen during that period from 1,300,000 to 3,200,000, and it is safe to infer that the value and volume of the trade have risen in the same ratio as the tonnage engaged in its conveyance. Similar increase is observable in the trade of India and other Eastern markets. The readiest means of measuring the whole of the trade of the East, together with part of that of Australia, is to take the amount of shipping passing through the Suez Canal. We have not got complete figures before us on this point, but at the recent meeting of shipowners and others interested in the promotion of a second canal it was stated that the Suez Canal traffic to St. Joseph's College. He was received by the had grown from four-and-a-half million tons Right Rev. Bishop Raimondi and the Brother in 1880 to seven million tons in 1882. Those Director of the College. Upon His Excellency's who are most competent to judge were, it arrival, the boys played and song" Welcome to our was said, of opinion that steamships in the Governor," and five addresses were delivered by the bave thought it advisable not to postpone the cleared off. Towards the west, the small bay quent raids upon the pirates during the past few Excellency then asked for information as to the Indian trade were increasing at such a rate that the Canal traffic was certain to exceed ten million tons before a second canal could by Master J. Francis, one in French by Master be built, and it was contended, having regard to the serious inconveniences which are experienced with the present traffic, that the conduct of the business will become almost impossible when it grows to ten million tons unless there be a second cana! by that time. may assume to be good authorities, Hongoutlook for the Colony, we take it, is a favourable one. Profits are not so large in proportion as they were in "the good old days," but the larger volume of the trade makes up, at all events to the manufacturer, for this, while even the merchant out here receives compensation for his shrunken profit part of the military establishments from the centre of the town, which would throw open a large extent of valuable ground ments constitute between the east and west. would render the land to the eastward more would be well provided with the means of intercommunication between its several parts, and the effect would necessarily be, by facilitating business, to favour the still more rapid growth of our steadily increasing trade.

THE EFFECTS OF OPIUM SMOKING ON THE HEALTH.

P.C.M.O. of the Straits Settlements. Three tables are given showing the weight of 100 opium-smoking prisoners picked out at random, on admission and discharge, admitted into the Gaol during 1882. The results throughout are very similar, and show, says Dr. ROWELL, that the withdrawal of the drug is readily borne, and flesh put on in conse-

TRADE STATISTICS IN HONGKONG | gather interest as it proceeds. As to the gain in weight made by the prisoners, it cannot be assumed that it arose directly It is unfortunate that in Hongkong we have from the deprivation of opium, for in another part of his report, speaking of the no means of obtaining statistics of the trade health of the poorer class of prisoners of the port. The only figures available are admitted Dr. Rowell says the probability those relating to shipping given in the Harprolonged, and certainly in some, saved, by a stay in prison. It is, in short, necester hoe and post hoe. A reference to the first table given shows that of 34 prisoners one month, the highest gain was 62lbs. and more than make up this loss by a longer detention, Table II. shews 25 prisoners who insignificant as is now Dutch. Those French, Wednesday evening, and about midnight equal to 62 grains, in weight, and costs English language. I would remind all who ing off the Praya, and the yells of the crows of table, however, is comparatively useless in the absence of data on which to found a comparison with non-smokers belonging to indeed, applies to the other tables, for the probability is, we think, that the majority of prisoners admitted to the Gaol, whether ium opsmokers or not, gain in weight. The very fact of their conviction of crime raises sons of a vicious mode of life, and it is only reasonable to expect that when they are compelled to keep regular hours, to take proper exercise, and receive a sufficiency of wholesome food, they should put on flesh. remained stationary negatives the presump tion that the deprivation of opium was the sole or chief cause of the improved health longer investigation of the subject is necessary and will gather interest as it proceeds. It is eminently desirable that those who have the opportunity of observing the effects of opium smoking on the health of persons who indulge in the habit should make it known. As the evidence stands at present it points to the conclusion that opium smoking in itself has practically no deleterious influence on the health. There are. in this direction, one positive and the other negative. The first is the fact that opium smokers, taken as a class and leaving out of fairly good health; and the second class Charity. of evidence is the fact that the most careful scientific investigation has failed to in opium smoking which could possibly injure the health. The gentlemen in charge. of missionary hospitals not infrequently reeffects of opium-smoking on the patients

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

16th July, 1883. On Thursday we were visited by the gale which passed over your place, but we experienced it with much more force, my barometer showing, at 7 p.m., 29.04; but my instrument is of low Muster's report, only a few of the smaller untive oraft came to grief, and about five corpses (Chinese) are all that are known to have been drowned. On shore many houses were deprived of their shutters and roof brims, in several places young and-old trees were either uprocted or had their branches broken. On the Prais Grande no damage, however, was done to the trees, which is astonishing as the grantest force of the gale was felt there owing to its being exposed, but the movement the water rose very high there, so much so that the houses along the praya were all fleeded. The immunity we enjoyed is no doubt due to timely precautions taken owing to our vivid remembrance of the '74 calamity and the telegram from Manila and the signal gan fired by order of the Harbour Master. The return of the Whits Cloud also contributed to put us on our look out.

Rumous is current here that three Chinese junks which were on their passage from Siak-ky to this port, with large numbers of passengers and laden with fruit, sought shelter at an island a little above Ma-lao Chow, and that somehow they resolved to propeed on the voyage. Unfortunately they experienced the extreme violence of the gale and capsized, the whole of their passengers and crew, with the exception of four seamen, being drowned. The number of their passengers long has cleared out her grates, ordered a parcel dinner, but as most of you can testify I have ness interests and honour. The driest statistician in the universe could scarcely be accused of conceiving such a problem at the first blush. Nevertheless it is a problem of some importance. for if the Jiju Shimbun may be credited, the yearly manufacture of rouge (beni) at Saikiyo and Osaka reaches a value of no less than 8 million yen. Is it possible to imagine money more uttorly and hopelessly wasted? Nothing spoils the prettiness of the fair sox in Japan except their lavish use of beni and oshiroi, and they are not likely to mend their ways seeing that a brisk demand for this same rouge has sprung up in foreign countries.
